Three topics go hand in hand when discussing limb salvage: diabetes, chronic wounds, and chronic limb ischemia.

This conference is a meeting point for experts in these fields working together to stem the tide of limb loss due to these prevalent diseases. We are in an exciting era where science is making great advances in finding innovative and effective therapies with the final aim of amputation prevention.

In addition to the science presented, the meeting will provide multiple hands on workshops for doctors and nurses in wound care, interventional vascular, ultrasound and much more.
